

Brunei Explosion-proof Distribution Box Specifications and Models

AI Overview

Explosion-proof distribution boxes in Brunei are designed for hazardous environments, with models like HRMD91 and BXM(D)58 offering flameproof enclosures, flexible configurations, and compliance with Ex d IIB+H2 standards.

Overview Explosion-proof distribution boxes are essential for safe power and lighting distribution in hazardous areas, including chemical plants, oil & gas facilities, offshore platforms, and dust-prone environments. These boxes are engineered to prevent ignition of explosive gases or dust, ensuring operational safety and regulatory compliance.

Common Models and Specifications

- HRMD91 Series
Protection Type: Flameproof Ex d IIB+H2
Material: Copper-free aluminum with powder-coated surface
Design Features: Specialized hinge structure to protect flameproof joints, extend service life, and allow modular installation
Customization: Can be combined or installed freely to meet various distribution system requirements; client-specific configurations available
- BXM(D)58 Series
Protection Type: Flameproof (Ex d) and increased safety (Ex e)
Applications: Power and lighting distribution in explosive gas and dust atmospheres
Internal Configuration: Supports circuit breakers, contactors, relays, and PLC systems
Customization: Size, cable entries, control components, and special project requirements can be tailored to client needs
Additional Features: Rainproof covers or protective cabinets for outdoor use; color-coded switch panels with padlock options for safety
- Supermec EJB and CSD Series
Applications: Chemical and petrochemical plants, offshore platforms, refineries
Material: Corrosion-resistant metals suitable for harsh environments
Functionality: Designed for power distribution, monitoring, and signal control in hazardous atmospheres

Compliance and Approval in Brunei All explosion-proof distribution boxes must comply with the Brunei Standards for Electrical Equipment (BS EEE) and be approved by the Brunei Standards Council (BSC).
