

Price of Multimode Fiber Optic Interface Module

AI Overview

Multimode fiber optic connection modules typically range from $20 to $200 per module, depending on type, data rate, and vendor. Overview of Pricing The cost of a multimode fiber optic module depends on several factors, including form factor (SFP, SFP+, QSFP), data rate (1G, 10G, 25G), wavelength, and vendor. For example: SFP multimode modules for 1G connections generally start around $20-$50 per module on platforms like Amazon and Mouser. SFP+ multimode modules for 10G connections typically range from $50-$150, depending on the brand and OM3/OM4 fiber compatibility. High-performance OM4 multimode transceivers designed for short to medium distances in data centers can cost $100-$200 per module. Vendor Options Mouser Electronics offers a wide selection of multimode fiber optic connectors and modules with datasheets and pricing for immediate purchase. Amazon provides SFP and SFP+ modules with varying speeds and fiber standards, suitable for small to medium network upgrades. DigiKey lists fiber optic transceiver modules with detailed specifications, including pluggable SFP, SFP+, QSFP, and XFP options, allowing buyers to select modules based on wavelength, data rate, and connector type. ShopFiber24 and FiberSavvy specialize in professional-grade multimode transceivers, often used in enterprise and data center environments, with pricing reflecting higher performance and compatibility. Considerations When selecting a multimode fiber optic module, consider: Distance and fiber type: OM3 and OM4 fibers support higher data rates over longer distances. Compatibility: Ensure the module matches your switch or router vendor specifications. Future-proofing: Higher-speed modules may cost more upfront but can support network growth. Bulk purchasing: Vendors may offer discounts for multiple units, which can reduce per-module cost. In summary, multimode fiber opti...
