

Price of Photovoltaic Panel Combiner Box Shut-off Switch

AI Overview

PV combiner box shut-off switches typically range from $30 to $150 depending on voltage, current rating, and features. Price Range and Options Basic DC Isolator Switches for small solar systems (e.g., 12–400V DC, 30A, 2–4 string inputs) are available on Amazon for around $30–$60. These are waterproof (IP67), easy to install, and suitable for wall mounting in residential or small off-grid systems. Higher-capacity switches (e.g., 64A, 1000V DC, IP66) designed for larger PV arrays or commercial installations can cost $100–$150 or more, depending on the number of poles and additional features like surge protection or monitoring. Integrated combiner boxes from manufacturers like ABB include overcurrent protection, disconnectors, and surge protective devices in one enclosure. Prices for these plug-and-play solutions vary widely based on the number of strings, rated current, and monitoring capabilities, typically starting around $120–$200 for standard residential models.

Factors Affecting Price

Voltage and Current Rating: Higher voltage or current ratings increase cost. Residential systems often use 600–1000V DC switches, while commercial systems may require 1500V DC.

Number of Strings/Pole Count: More input circuits or poles increase complexity and price.

Waterproofing and IP Rating: IP65–IP67 rated switches for outdoor use are slightly more expensive than indoor-rated units.

Additional Features: Surge protection, monitoring, and integrated fuses or breakers add to the cost.

Buying Tips

Determine the number of PV strings and the maximum system voltage before selecting a switch. Consider future expansion; it's often cheaper to buy a slightly larger combiner box than to replace it later. Compare IP rating and durability if the switch will be exposed to harsh weather. In summary, for a typical residential PV system, expect to pay $30–$60 for a basic shut-off switch...
